Heart 2 and Fan 2

There are two new templates on tab 5 of the Wizard template library. Access them as you would any of the other Wizard templates.

Heart 2

Click the Parameters tab at the bottom and you will see three fields where you can change the shape of the heart.

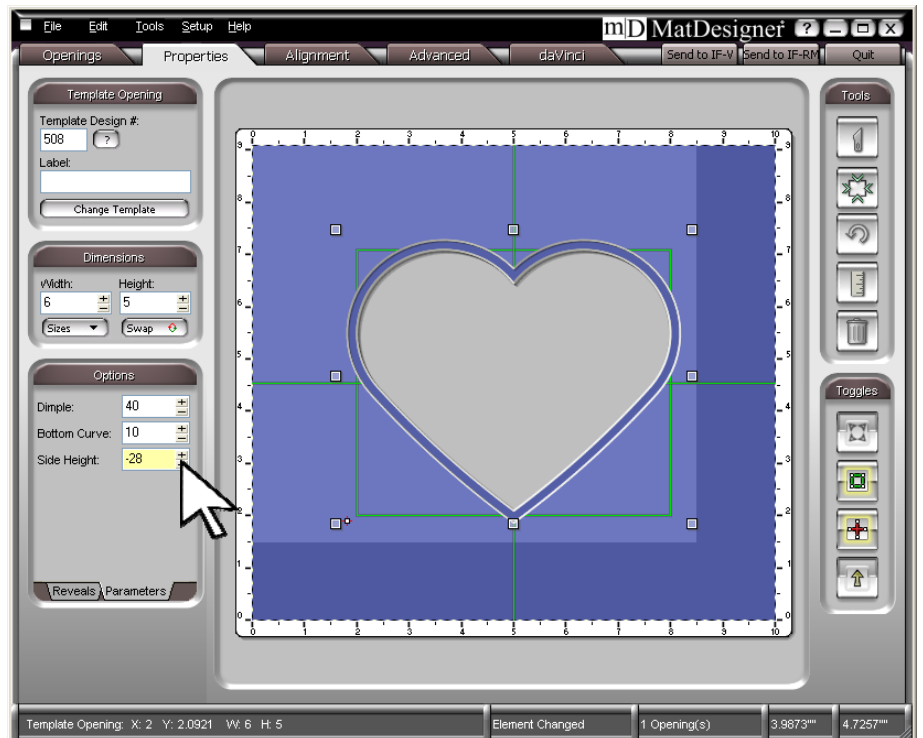

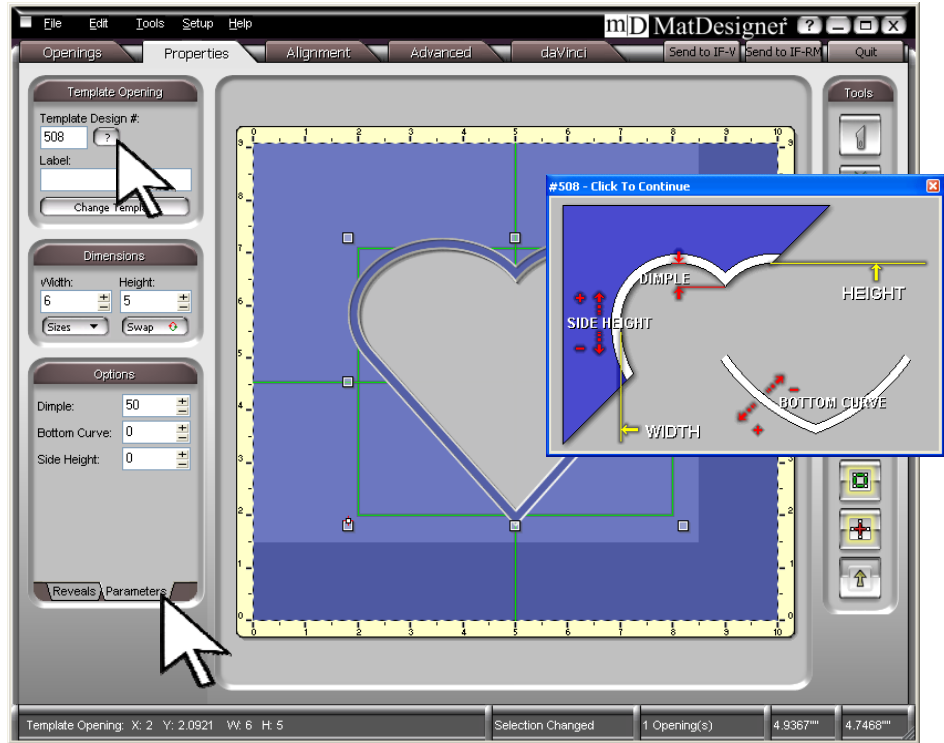

To see exactly what these parameters change, click the Question Mark at the top left under Template Opening. This opens the Template Map where you see diagrams that explain the parameters as well as the yellow lines that show the points where the Height and Width of the shape are measured.

Here is a heart where the parameters have been changed to refine the shape.

The Dimple setting raises or lowers the top center point.

The Bottom Curve setting bows the diagonal line at the bottom. When it is set to 0 it is a straight line.

The Side Height setting moves the junction of the diagonal line and the top arc to make the arc more circular or more oval.

Fan 2

The new fan template is number 509. You can now add a bottom arc and manipulate it to suit the design.

The Bot Arc Height sets the height of the bottom arc. The Bot Arc Width sets the width of the bottom arc as it changes the angle of the sides.

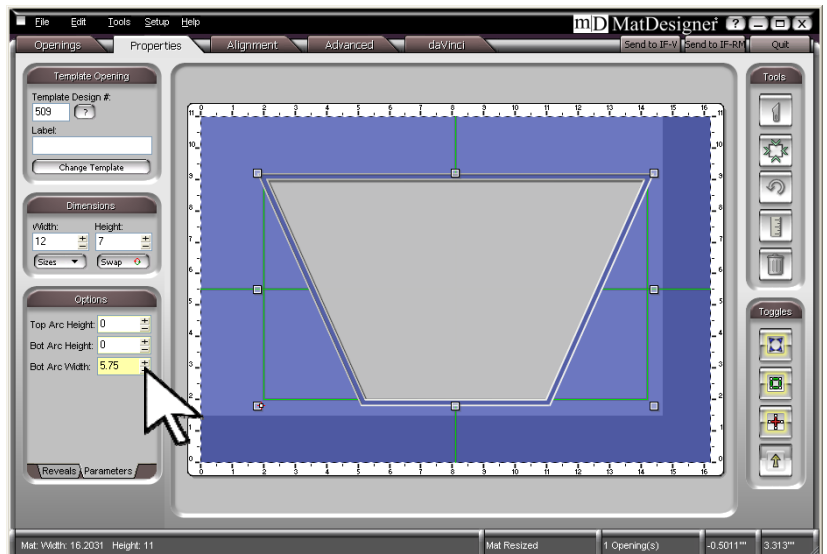

We have sometimes needed to make a circle at the bottom of the fan shape in order to accommodate a hanging ornament. By making the Bot Arc Height a negative number, we can do this.

And when the need arises to cut a trapezoidal opening, set the Top Arc Height and the Bot Arc Height to 0.

Set the Bot Arc Width to the length of the short side.
